"Jennifer," said Mom. "Be sure to pick up your room. Betty and her daughter, Danielle, are coming to visit."

"But Mom," said Jennifer. "I can't stand Danielle. You know how she lies to me. And all she does is brag about her new toys and clothes."

Mom nodded her head slowly. "I know, Jennifer. Danielle's parents don't follow Jesus, so Danielle doesn't know Him either. That's why she acts the way she does. We're hoping that they will come to our Bible study someday. Dad and I are trying to help Danielle's parents learn about Jesus. Why don't you try to help Danielle?"

Jennifer thought about that.

"Boys, how was your visit with Uncle Ray? Is he feeling any better today?" asked Dad.

"He gets his cast taken off next week, but he looks so sad," said Peter.

Mom said, "He's still sore from the accident. It'll be a while before he feels good as new."

"Can he take us fishing this summer?" asked Chris.

Dad grinned. "He'll be ready for fishing, I'm sure," he said.

"Dad, did Uncle Ray ask God to make his leg better?" asked Chris

"Boys, Uncle Ray doesn't know much about God and Jesus," said Mom. "Dad and I have told him a little, but he doesn't seem interested. Maybe you boys can help."
